PROPOSAL

Profile Message Writer

Today you copy a profile, paste it to someone, wait for a message and paste it back. This does the middle part for you in about ten seconds, and you still press Send yourself.

How it works

1
Open a profile
Browse the site the way you already do.

2
Click Generate
Or press Alt+Shift+G. The extension reads the page for you.

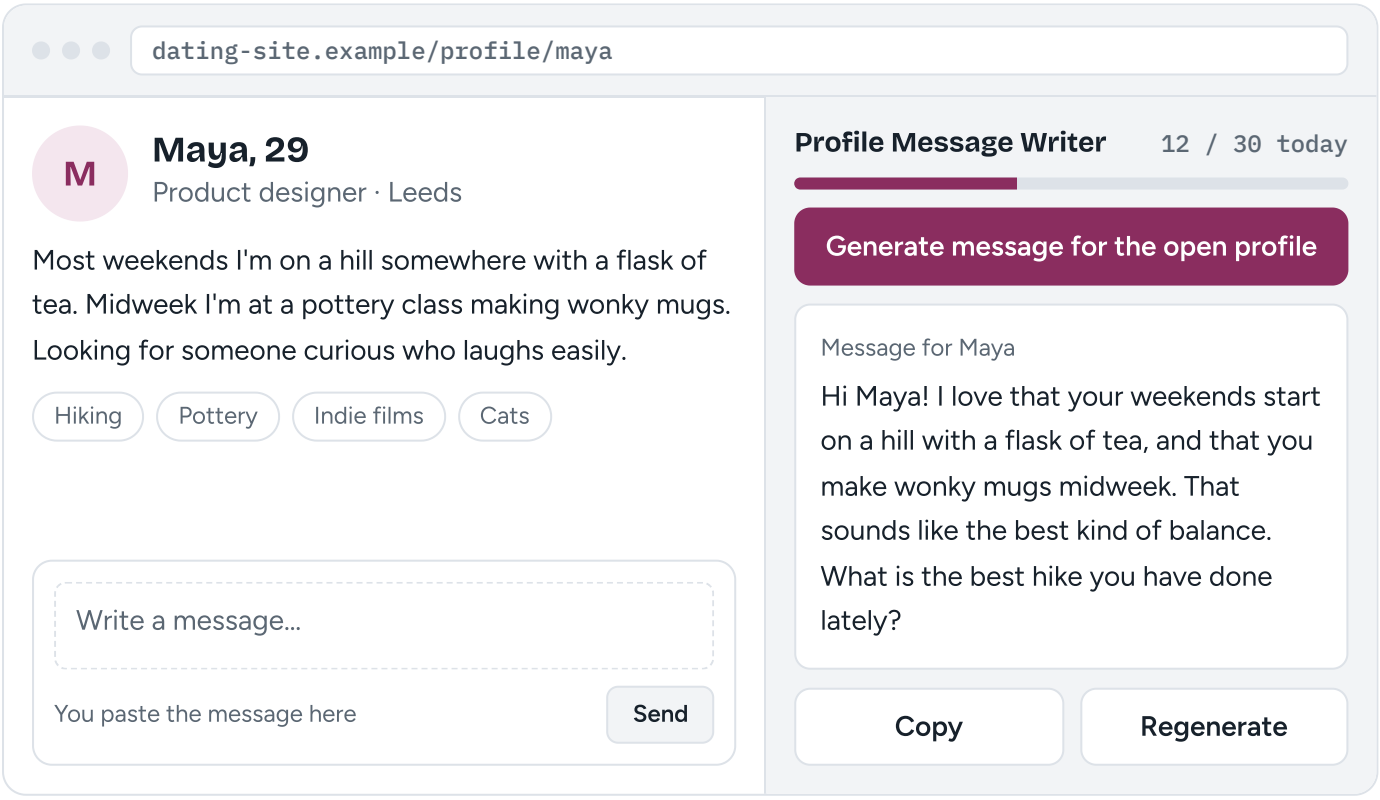

3
Read the message
A personal note based on their bio and interests, ready in a side panel and already copied.

4
Paste and send
You stay in control of what goes out.

Behind the scenes: page text → our private server → Gemini → your side panel. Your Gemini key never leaves the server.

Prototype

A mock-up of the side panel next to a profile page (fictional profile). In the live version, Generate fills in the message you see here.

What we automate, and what stays with you

Automated

- Reading the profile
- Writing a personal message
- Copying it to your clipboard
- Counting messages against your daily limit

Still you

- Pasting into the chat
- Pressing Send

The site blocks pasted first messages for some accounts and its heart button sends a Like instantly, so we deliberately do not type or click for you. It keeps your account safe.

Control and safety

Daily limit

You set it, and change it any time.

Private by design

No database. Profile text is not stored on our server.

Your access

One license token for you. We can switch it off at any moment.

Next steps

1. We deploy the server and send you the extension and your token.
2. You install it and paste the token. About five minutes.
3. You tell us your preferred tone, language and daily limit, and we tune the messages with you on real profiles.

Costs: Gemini is billed per message and is very small; hosting is a flat monthly fee. Exact figures come with the quote.

Prototype uses a fictional profile. Message quality in the live version depends on how much the real profile says.
